Necessity of Scientific & Social Research

The rise in the levels of pollution in India has contributed to the sufferance of people from different diseases. Majority of the people suffer from high blood pressure, diabetes, heart attack and mental strain. Water pollution, air pollution, sand pollution and mental pollution are the chief causes. The use of excessive fertilizers and poisons pesticides germinate new diseases. Mental pollution leads to decline in society, generates anger and spreads bitterness in family relation. To solve the above stated problems our institute has initiated Scientific and Social Research. The main points of the affairs of the operational program are as below.

Scientific Research Program

1. The rising prices of allopathic medicines and expensive treatment of huge nursing home, hospitals have eluded the ordinary man from standard treatment. 70% of the population of India lives in rural areas. Majority of them economically vulnerable. The medical facilities in the villages are limited, it is impossible for the villagers to get the treatment in cities. Consequently, they are unable to obtain treatment for trivial illnesses which undermines their physical capacity. These illnesses gradually take serious proportions and prove to be fatal.
2. Our institution has undertaken the responsibility to solve the above mentioned serious problem by providing treatment through allopathic as well as ancient Indian Ayurvedic System of Treatment to the poor. However, it requires extensive research. Few medicinal herbs are at the threshold of being extinct. Lack of information or identification of medicinal herbs lead to their destruction soon after their emergence, often they are fed as fodder to animals. The availability of these herbs are low. Small agricultural land owners do not profit from ordinary harvests. By training these land owners in the technique of medicinal herbs farming, the farming of medicinal herbs will be started and they will reap profitable margins. This will strengthen their financial position and their would be availability of medicinal herbs and ayurvedic medicines for cheap treatment of poor patients.
3. Efficient running of research center is essential for the research on medicinal herbs and for the positive impact of medicines. The assistant and consultation of ayurvedic experts and scientist is taken for increasing the efficiency of majority of medicinal herbs. The production of the ayurvedic herbs shall be done at appropriate position and the scope of research centers will be widened in order to make medicinal herbs available all over India. Treatment center with the public assistance would be opened at various places providing treatment free or at concessional fees.

Social Research Program

People from all sections of society suffer from mental agony are victims of mental pollution. Mental pollution may be caused due to non fulfillment of aspiration of the family, smoking, intoxication, unemployment, trying to satisfy the desires and ambitions, ordinary wear and tear of life, expensive education, future, fear of not attaining one's goal, disillusioned by obscene literature and obscene cinema. It leads to the feeling of agitation and results into domestic conflict. In the society relations of mutual respect and love is fast diminishing. Sweetness in relations has reduced. People are trying to find solve in fruitless entertainment because of formality. The meaning of "Vasudeva Kutumbukam" is restricted only to the written words. People find themselves lonely in the crowd. Conflict between the spouses, disrespect towards the elderly of the home are on the rise due to outlook difference in the family. It generates disappointment and fear in children. The kids do not share quality time from their parents and face lack of true love and affection. They suffer from low self-esteem in their adolescence and do not attain comprehensive development. Adolescence is seen as one stage in life. The stage is identified by rapid physical development, psychological and social development, development of primary mental processes for independence of choosing company through social and financial dependence. Adolescents are regarded as individuals having difficulties, problems and feelings of dissent. This is the pessimistic side of their specialties. Realistically, the specialties of adolescents are that they have strange needs which need to be taken care of and fulfilled. The adolescents can be developed as responsible and healthy members by positive stimulation and by providing them appropriate environment. If a feeding of idealism can be instilled in them, and if appropriate environmental plan and method of work can be made available to them, than they can prove as engine to social transformation and national renewal.

The analysis of literature in the area of psychological consultation show that ordinarily there are 7 problems namely:

- a. Physical/health related (food and nutrition, psychosomatic illness, general health, physical exercise etc.)
- b. Family related (family partition and security)
- c. Financial (education, health, entertainment, budget)
- d. Psychological (restlessness, lack of belief, tension etc.)
- e. Social (friendship, sharing relation with friends/teacher, face sexually related problems)
- f. Emotional (anger, heart attack, hypertension, loneliness, insecurity and guilt feeling)
- g. Academic (concentration, time management, exam fear, memorization power, learning power)

By the time majority of the people attain youth, they already suffer from various obsessions and mental stress. It leads to terrorism in society and violent movements. Youth with polluted mentality misuse their potential powers by inciting caste discrimination, religion dissension. It undermines the unity and integrity of the nation. It weakens the feeling of security within the citizens. The breeding of these unending problems endanger the fabric of police security services.

After the analysis of the above difficult problems of the society the institution has undertaken social research program for complete elimination of these problems. The emotional and mental can only be eliminated through psychological means. The only solution to eliminate these problems in the mind is through psychological means through various positive program, since all these problems originate from the mind. Post research it has been discovered that mind can not be stopped from mulling over but its direction can be channelized from negativity to positivity.

Under the social research program, it has been decided by the institution that those regions in the country where cast violence, terrorism, rebellions, discriminations and separation is on rise must be given priority. "Personality development realization center" shall be opened in regions where tribes are extremely poor. Nearby regions will be sociologically inspected through the medium of these centers so that the causes of simmering vices can be accurately estimated. Different sections of the regions like women, youth, adolescents, elder lies, children, education sector, health sector, police administration and people related to different occupation shall be classified into groups and through workshop training programs these vices can be eliminated. Through the medium of these programs their aspiration can be ascertain and properly remedied. "Personality development realization center" shall daily provide psychological consultations to those coming regularly. the institutions for this purpose shall take the services of specialists, psychologist, academicians, educationalist, sociologist, technical specialist. Famous celebrities, national award winners, medalists from all over the world shall also be invited.

It is the firm belief of the institution that by operation of these programs peace and tranquility shall prevail all over India and bring glory to the country. India shall re-emerge as a light house to the world. This massive work is possible only through public participation.
